17. Justificación articulada a la Fundamentación del plan de estudios

The course is designed to provide the student with a global vision of the world. The students will learn about the historical, political, cultural, social, economic, and scientific issues related to globalization and understand the opportunities and challenges on a local, national, and global scale. The students will discuss the concept of globalization and its impact on society. This course presents a good opportunity for the students, not only those in the social sciences and humanities, but also in other disciplines, to have the possibility of increasing their cultural training and to be able to access to both general and specific knowledge about the interconnectedness across the world that eventually leads to global cultural, political and economic integration.

18. Unidad de competencia (UC)

The student understands the importance of the globalization process and its impact on society through analysis, discussion, and critical reflection of the topics that are reviewed during the course. The student can develop global skills and active citizenship to actively participate in their community by responding to the needs of their environment.
